GENERAL INFORMATION ON

Improvement of Accessibility for Social Inclusion - Barrier-free Environment for All -課題別研修「共生社会実現のためのアクセシビリティの改善 -バリアフリー化の推進-」 JFY 2018 NO. J18-04399 / ID. 1884827 Course Period in Japan: From 10th June, 2018 to 30th June, 2018

This information pertains to one of the JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), which shall be implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.

'JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (KCCP)' as a New Start

In the Development Cooperation Charter which was released from the Japanese Cabinet on February 2015, it is clearly pointed out that "In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field-oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together." We believe that this 'Knowledge Co-Creation Program' will serve as a center of mutual learning process.

I. Concept

Background

Barrier-free environment is indispensable in order to realize an inclusive society including the elderly persons and persons with disabilities. Ensuring access to public transportation, buildings, institutions and information is important.

In addition, the improvement of accessibility is expected to have positive economic effect, such as the activation of the tourism industry. In JICA's thematic Guidelines (Disability and Development), the improvement of accessibility is clearly stated as one of the most important approaches.

The training aims to strengthen the capacity of government officers in formulating policies on accessibility and in ensuring community participation. The participants will gain knowledge on Japanese policies and regulations, the role of government officials, those of organizations of persons with disabilities and of the private sector.

For what?

This program aims to strengthen the capacity of government officials to formulate policies on accessibility

For whom?

This program is offered to national or local government agencies*, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and organizations of persons with disabilities (DPOs). *Participants from national or local government agencies are expected to be administrative officers in charge of policy, regulation, system and coordination of the accessibility rather than engineers, since this program will not focus on the engineering field.

Participants shall have opportunities to identify approaches and strategies to ensure program effectiveness, enhance financial security, and improve organizational viability on the accessibility. Participants will also formulate an action plan describing what they will do after they go back to home country, utilizing the knowledge and ideas acquired and discussed in Japan into their activities.

JICA and Capacity Development

The key concept underpinning JICA operations since its establishment in 1974 has been the conviction that "capacity development" is central to the socioeconomic development of any country, regardless of the specific operational scheme one may be undertaking, i.e. expert assignments, development projects, development study projects, training programs, JOCV programs, etc.

Within this wide range of programs, Training Programs have long occupied an important place in JICA operations. Conducted in Japan, they provide partner countries with opportunities to acquire practical knowledge accumulated in Japanese society. Participants dispatched by partner countries might find useful knowledge and re-create their own knowledge for enhancement of their own capacity or that of the organization and society to which they belong.

About 460 pre-organized programs cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs and are being customized to address the specific needs of different target organizations, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan was the first non-Western country to successfully modernize its society and industrialize its economy. At the core of this process, which started more than 140 years ago, was the "adopt and adapt" concept by which a wide range of appropriate skills and knowledge have been imported from developed countries; these skills and knowledge have been adapted and/or improved using local skills, knowledge and initiatives. They finally became internalized in Japanese society to suit its local needs and conditions.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from this "adoption and adaptation" process, which, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories. We presume that such experiences, both successful and unsuccessful, will be useful to our partners who are trying to address the challenges currently faced by developing countries.

However, it is rather challenging to share with our partners this whole body of Japan's developmental experience. This difficulty has to do, in part, with the challenge of explaining a body of "tacit knowledge," a type of knowledge that cannot fully be expressed in words or numbers. Adding to this difficulty are the social and cultural systems of Japan that vastly differ from those of other Western industrialized countries, and hence still remain unfamiliar to many partner countries. Simply stated, coming to Japan might be one way of overcoming such a cultural gap.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.
